Serious railway accidents are seldon chronicled here, although Council Bluffs is one of the greatest railway centers on the continent.

At Woodbine, on Friday night, an east bound extra freight in charge of Conductor Mahlin, with G. L. Smith, engineer of No. 234 at the front, L. Montgomery fireman, and J. H. Mertz brakeman, passed through a misplaced switch, and from the wreck of seven cars and the engine the dead bodies of Smith and Meiz were exhumed so crushed as to be a mere shapeless and had many friends especially among the railway employes. A dozen conjectures as to the cause or causes have been made, but is more than'probable that had due care been exercised the accident would have been prevented. The criminal negligence should be placed where it belongs and severe penalties meted out for the criminal or

The Pulpit.

At the Presbyterian church, Council Bluffs, yesterday Rev. H. M. Meekin preached in this church in the morning, taking for his text, Heb. 11, 4. on the Faith and Sacrifice of Abel. This was the second discourse on this subject. From his introductory remarks we learned that in the first discourse he endesvored to solve the problem why Abel's offering was accepted whilst that of Cain was - rejected by God, by pointing to the Divine Sovereignty and to the nature of the offers. Cain's heart being unchanged mass of flesh. L. Montgomery, the fireman, was slightly scalded.

The victims were known in this city

Besides he showed how "Abel's sacrifice differed in its nature from Cain's, being an animal victim, a propitiatory victim and forshadowing the great victim of Calvary.

The discourse yesterday was taken up with two other points, what Abel's faith obtained, namely evidence of his acceptance, and what were the consequences of Abel's faith, "he being dead yet speaketh." The deeds that men do live after them; character is transmitted and for good or evil every man's life and conduct are immortal. In the evening he delivered a lecture on rainbow of the revelation presenting the nature, scriptural history and symbolic meaning of the rainbow. The infidel argument was met by admitting the existence of the rainbow before the flood and contending that the words "I do set my bow in the clouds," simply mean that God appointed the rainbow at that time, consecrated it there for a sign and pledge of peace. The original Hebrew will bear this construction, and it takes the question of the existence of the rainbow out of the range of the preternatural and assigns it to the

Col. Benjamin S. Hazard, the popular proprietor of the Warwick Neck Hotel, he learned that the greater part of the handsome residences had been errored inside of a dozen years; and he also learned that Col. Hazard had been a great sufferer from a chronic disease of the Kidney and Bladder over filteen years, the most painful form of it being a stoppage or retention of the urine, which was so very severe at times as to disable him 'rem his accus omed work, and even confine him to the bed, when a surgeo 's assistance would be required to re'l ve him. He was being doctors i a large part of the time, but could go no permanent relief. At times his sufferings were terr.ble from sharp, custing pains the ugh the Kidneys and Bladder; and he had suffered so long and so severely that he hed become discoursed of getting well again, especially as the doctor stated that it was doubtfu. if a man of his age, with such a complicated disease of long standing, could be cured.
